

The increased planting of potted-trees runs counter to creating a stock of long-lived healthy trees. Poorly potted trees lack healthy roots, which is something the tree can't fix once it is in the ground.

Also, mowers and weed whackers deliver cumulative damage to a tree.

"Trees have a delayed response to damage," said Graham Herbst, also of the Nebraska Forest Service. "You really have to pay attention to what you are doing. There are a lot of things we can do to minimize our impacts on trees."
